

DIRECTORY OF SERVICES

for people with disabilities

2014 Edition

EDITOR'S NOTE

This directory is intended to be a resource document of local and national agencies, and organizations serving people with disabilities.

Although an attempt was made to obtain complete and accurate information, many things do not remain constant. Therefore, if you know of additional agencies, services, or corrections to be made, please contact:

Disabled Services Division

The agencies listed in this guide can be of great assistance to persons with disabilities and their family members. Assisting persons with disabilities to gain their greatest level of independence in education, employment, transportation, and daily living skills enables them to be contributing members in today's society. Visually impaired or blind persons should contact our office to ask for this publication in Braille or on tape. This entire Directory is also located on our website.

Neither this Division, nor the City of Jacksonville endorses, or recommends any private for profit businesses listed in this directory, but rather have provided this information for individuals to contact, and compare prices, services, and special accommodation features. For further information, consult your local telephone directory.

TIPS FOR DEALING WITH AGENCIES

There are numerous public, as well as private nonprofit, organizations that provide services to people with disabilities. When you locate the appropriate agency/service, the following suggestions may help you save time, and spare you frustration.

- A. Be sure you have contacted the proper agency.
 - 1. If you do not understand the receptionist, ask him/her, to repeat the name of the agency/organization.
 - 2. Be sure the agency contacted can/will serve the individual(s) with a particular disability.
 - 3. Most agencies (public and private) have specific eligibility criteria. Find out what they are. If that particular agency cannot help, ask if they can refer you to an appropriate agency or contact person.

- B. Record all the information you gather.
 - 1. Name of agency and the name of the person you spoke with.
 - 2. Date you made contact.
 - 3. The agency's recommendation for action.

- C. Ask if the agency requires you to submit specific documents, such as:
 - 1. Birth certificate
 - 2. Social Security Card
 - 3. Medical Information
 - 4. Other

- D. Be patient, be pleasant, but persistent.

The Florida Department of Children and Families has adopted an integrated approach to programs and services as we work to help improve the lives of individuals and families. Everyday, the men and women at the Florida Department of Children and Families work hard to protect the vulnerable, promote strong and economically self-sufficient families, and advance personal and family recovery and resiliency. We protect children, the elderly and the disabled from abuse and neglect. We are responsible for nearly 19,000 children in foster care, and we find permanent homes for children who cannot safely be reunited with their families. We also offer services that help families on a day-to-day basis. We provide food stamps and temporary cash assistance and determine eligibility for Medicaid. We provide access to substance abuse and mental health treatment and we work with community partners who provide services to families threatened by homelessness and domestic violence.

Founded in 1984 by Jim Allsup, a former Social Security field representative, Allsup was the first Nationwide, private Social Security disability claims services company. The company built its reputation on the philosophy of "You stay at home. We do the work." They are also have an expert understanding of the specialized needs of those with disabilities.

Fee structure: The SSA determines the fee that any representative can charge for SSDI representation. Currently, under the SSA's fee agreement approval process, it is 25 percent of the retroactive dollar amount awarded, not to exceed $6,000 (as of June 22, 2009*). Those who are approved for SSDI benefits, sometimes very quickly, and do not receive a retroactive award generally pay lower fees.

Example: If you are awarded a $1,000 monthly benefit and the award is retroactive 12 months ($12,000), your fee would be $3,000 (.25 x $12,000). You would keep the other $9,000 of your retroactive award. All of your monthly benefits ($1,000) are yours to keep going forward.

Example: If your claim takes 42 months to get your $1,000 monthly benefit, your representation fee would be capped at $6,000 on the $42,000 retroactive award rather than $10,500 (.25 x $42,000).

The Access Board is an independent Federal agency devoted to accessibility for people with disabilities. Created in 1973 to ensure access to federally funded facilities, the Board is now a leading source of information on accessible design. The Board develops and maintains design criteria for the built environment, transit vehicles, telecommunications equipment, and for electronic and information technology. It also provides technical assistance and training on these requirements and on accessible design and continues to enforce accessibility standards that cover federally funded facilities. The Board is structured to function as a coordinating body among Federal agencies and to directly represent the public, particularly people with disabilities. Half of its members are representatives from most of the Federal departments. The other half is comprised of members of the public appointed by the President, a majority of whom must have a disability.

Programs: Project Safe Place is a program that utilizes public/private partnership to help children in trouble. Residential Program provides short term shelter care and counseling to more than 2,000 troubled children each year. Family Link Program is an outpatient counseling program for families experiencing any type of youth-related problem, which disrupts the health and stability of the family. Special Needs Assistance Program is a longer-term residential program for older adolescents (16-17 years old) who have no family support system to which they can be immediately returned. These youths can remain in our residential program until they are either reunited with their families or placed in a program that best suits their needs, such as Job Corps. Some of these youths are enrolled in FCCJ (Florida Community College of Jacksonville) and working.
