

Jacksonville-Duval County Council on Elder Affairs

Promoting and supporting the well-being of our senior community.

COEA was established by City Ordinance (Ord. 2018-465-E) as a county-wide body representing the elderly population of Duval County. The singular mission of this volunteer organization is to advocate for seniors and the elderly by maximizing opportunities for personal independence and self-sufficiency.

Council members interact on a personal level with their communities, churches and civic groups to inform seniors about available programs, services and events which may enhance their quality of life.

While COEA does not provide services or operate programs, members use varied methods to accomplish its mission, including outside and in-home speaking engagements.

COEA interacts and works closely with representatives of legislative bodies, health, transportation, seniors service and library organizations to insure that the concerns of seniors are communicated to the City Council members with the proper recommendations to facilitate City planning goals.

COEA has 19 members, 14 Council appointees and five Mayoral appointees who serve a 2-year term and may be reappointed for a second term. Members elect a chairperson and a vice chairperson each year.

Committee membership is open to any person, regardless of age or occupation who is interested in any aspect of senior life. The two qualifications for membership are (1) 55 years of age or over and (2) not an employee of any governmental agency or a provider of services.
