

Sunny Gettinger, Head of External Communications, Google Fiber, has spent almost two decades working for Google, both in Jacksonville for Google Fiber and in California focused on workplace culture and HR issues, as well as internal and external communications. She holds a Masters in Public Policy from Harvard's Kennedy School and BA in English from Yale. In life before Google, she worked in the political and non-profit world, serving on both Al Gore and Wesley Clark's presidential campaigns and running publicity and publications for the California Shakespeare Theatre. A resident of Jacksonville since 2009, Sunny currently serves on the executive committees of the Jewish Community Alliance and the Memorial Park Association, as well as the board of Leadership Jacksonville and the Jacksonville Public Library's Advisory Council. She is also the past chair of Riverside Avondale Preservation's board, which she served on for six years, and the Riverside Arts Market and also served as the Vice Chair of the Early Learning Coalition of Duval board. A former City Council candidate for District 14 in Jacksonville, she is a founding member of 904ward, helping to lead the group's work on the Race Card project and is an active member of the James Weldon Johnson PTA. She has two boys, Cort and Max, with her husband Trey Csar.