

Vice-Chair William Maule is a Jacksonville-based attorney specializing in federal tax controversy. He currently serves as a supervisory trial attorney with the Internal Revenue Service Office of Chief Counsel, leading a group of trial attorneys representing the IRS in Tax Court. William's group is currently assigned hundreds of cases in various stages of litigation with over $75 million dollars of tax revenue at issue. In addition to his full-time work with the IRS, William also serves as a commissioned officer in the United States Army Reserve's Judge Advocate General's Corps (JAG). William's service includes one combat tour to Baghdad, Iraq in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom, and two tours to the Republic of South Korea. His current rank is Major, and his job title is Chief of Administrative Law for the 143rd Expeditionary Sustainment Command, Orlando, Florida.

Prior to joining the IRS, William served as an Assistant Chief Counsel for U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement and as an Asylum Officer for U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services. William has dedicated his adult life to public service. William is a Barrister in the Chester Bedell American Inn of Court, an active member of the Jacksonville Federal Court Bar Association, the Jacksonville Bar Association, and the D.W. Perkins Bar Association, where he serves as its treasurer.

William earned a B.S. in Human Environmental Sciences from The University of Alabama in 2008 and a J.D., cum laude, from Texas Southern University, Thurgood Marshall School of Law in 2011.

William is married to his best friend, Dana, and they have three sons. William is a faithful member of the Household of Faith Church where he serves as a deacon.